Project period: Jan. 2012–Aug. 2012
Contractor: BFI Burgenland

In today's labour market, foreign language skills are of key relevance, especially for clerical and sales staff. Almost every employer needs workers who speak several languages.

This qualification project focuses on English as the main business language. Spanish and French are also taught, as these languages are increasingly important in the business world. Alternatively, participants may attend Italian, Romanian, Russian or Hungarian language courses. Moreover, courses leading to the European Business Competence Licence (EBC*L) are offered at level A or B as required.

The subjects addressed in AP.I.A II focused on the integration of immigrants into the labour market. Compiling professional job applications with the participants and teaching them basic computer skills were part of the project, as were enhancing individual strengths and analysing the labour market situation in the province of Carinthia. The project also imparted strategies for coping with everyday problems and dealt with social and political issues as well as aspects of culture (both the participants' own and Austrian culture). The training lasted about half a year for each group, taking place on five mornings per week, from Monday to Friday.

Qualitativ gesicherte Angebote zur Basisbildung in Österreich

Programme: ESF Objective 2 Programme
Project number: E-1.2-100
Project period: Feb. 2012–Jan. 2014
Contractor: BFI Oberösterreich
Austria
<http://www.bfi-ooe.at>

Following the example of Upper Austria, BFI Carinthia plans to introduce quality-assured basic education programmes. In addition to the transfer of know-how, awareness-raising activities will be carried out in institutes with similar objectives, and by multipliers. The goal is for BFI Carinthia to integrate the respective curricula into their product portfolio. With branches all over the province, including rural areas, BFI Carinthia has access to target groups that cannot be reached (or not to the same extent) by other adult education institutions.

This project aims to refine an educational concept for identifying, addressing and resolving job-related interaction problems, and to adapt and transfer it to other countries and sectors. The concept originated at the Linz Johannes Kepler University (JKU) and is based on two instruments: "Comprehend", a method developed by JKU for reflecting on and visualising job-related processes, and "Teaching and Learning Company" (TLC), a method used by Technik-Akademie Vienna Region to represent and simulate workplace processes for training purposes.

Programme: European Refugee Fund
Project number: M06-09/2011 3AI EFF 1798
F-56/11 AK
Project period: Jan. 2012–Dec. 2012
Contractor: BFI Oberösterreich

The main goal of the Meso 6 project is to improve immigrants' German language skills. For this purpose, German language courses are offered at different levels, geared towards the specific needs and skills of the target group. Language learning takes place in the context of the participants' actual situation, giving them the option of acquiring internationally recognised certificates based on the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages.

Partners from seven European countries co-operate in this project in order to find new opportunities for unemployed persons under 25. This includes the transfer and further development of a training programme run by the Freyung-Grafenau VHS adult education centre. The innovative team coaching approach helps young job seekers to acquire work-related key skills qualifications. The participants become familiar with entrepreneurial thinking and hone their social skills while learner autonomy is fostered. This increases their intrinsic motivation and their chances in the labour market.

The goal of this project is to ascertain whether, and in what way, e-learning platforms and web-based training may foster a positive interaction between school- or university-based learning on the one hand and work-based learning on the other hand. The VICOVET partnership contributes to the development of new ICT-based methods relevant to this project. The participants improve the skills needed for web-based learning and using e-learning platforms, especially in the context of practical training and work placement. By way of project outcomes a series of online modules for practical training will be available.

This project includes a basic advisory service provided by Wels municipal council directly at the offices of the competent local immigration authorities. Individualised advice for specific situations is available – if need be, in the immigrants' mother tongues. In addition, a course is organised to help the newcomers obtain crucial information on living in a new culture, job opportunities, housing, health care, leisure activities, the education and training system, law, and, above all, the “informal rules” of Austrian society.

MELETE

Programme: ESF Objective 2 Programme
Project number: E-1.2-140
Project period: Feb. 2012–June 2014
Contractor: BFI Salzburg BildungsGmbH

The goal of the project is to remove barriers that prevent adults with low levels of education (primarily adults with an immigrant background) from accessing adult education programmes. For this purpose, low-threshold community-based approaches geared towards the participants' needs are adopted locally and tested: education guides, who are immigrants themselves, provide information and raise awareness of (adult) education and training opportunities in the neighbourhood and in their ethnic communities. Immigrant multipliers organise informal meetings (e. g. tea parties for ethnic Turkish women) to discuss matters of education and (further) training and to facilitate low-threshold learning experiences. Free workshops grounded in everyday life are planned together with the target group to permit immediate access to adult education.

Step by Step

Programme: ESF Objective 2 Programme
Project number: N / A
Project period: Jan. 2012–Dec. 2013
Contractor: BFI Salzburg BildungsGmbH

This project aims to integrate young jobless recipients of means-tested minimum income into the regular labour market. It combines individual coaching, an analysis of strengths and skills, vocational orientation and short periods of group teaching on the one hand and workshops, specialised lectures and work placement on the other, as well as giving advice and support during employment on trial. This mix affords the target group of young adults between 18 and 24 a range of opportunities that can help them on their individual paths to paid employment. Assistance with structured self-organisation and biographical methods are central to the project. Another goal is to optimise the co-operation between Public Employment Service, social welfare offices and training provider. The project consists of six training units, which are held in the city of Salzburg. Each unit lasts ten weeks.

Staff qualification is an essential prerequisite for the dynamic economic development of enterprises. The increasing shortage of skilled workers in the technical field calls for new approaches to vocational orientation for young people. Particularly girls and young women still tend to focus on a very limited number of career choices. Many of them know little or nothing about typical jobs and materials in science, technology and engineering.

FEMCOOP, a project realised in the context of the cross-border co-operation between Austria and Hungary 2007–2013, aims to attract especially girls and young women to jobs in science, technology and engineering, and thus to counteract the skilled worker shortage in the project regions. The plan is to enlist skilled women workers in the metal and electrical industries as role models for young women and girls.

Q-Bicon is a transfer and further training project in which BFI Styria has taken on both content-related and organisational tasks. Q-Bicon focuses on the exchange of know-how and on further training in the field of renewable energy, in the form of blended-learning courses with optimised teaching / learning content. Its main goal is to develop innovative curricula, to ensure adequate qualification of stakeholders and to equip them with general skills such as knowledge management and adviser competence.

Expected results:

- blended-learning courses for advisers and multipliers
- an active exchange between decision-makers in the education and training system and energy experts
- improved further training choices oriented to labour market demand
- overcoming obvious knowledge and experience gaps through adequate training
- new jobs with good prospects for the future

It is being implemented in Prague and its environs. BFI Styria acts in an advisory capacity and assists with implementation.

Expected results:

- greater efficiency of active labour market policies for young adults in the Czech Republic
- transfer of the “Jugenddrehscheibe” programme
- pilot adaptation of the “Jugenddrehscheibe” concept to the specific needs in the Czech Republic
- evaluation of project results

ABC-Café is addressed to women from non-EU countries who, because of their previous education, housing situation, childcare duties or similar reasons, are unable to acquire regular German language qualifications and / or attend integration courses. In discussions, workshops with experts and on field trips (e. g. to local government offices, schools, surgeries, etc.) the women prepare for situations such as dealing with local authorities, visiting doctors, going for job interviews, etc. unaided. The course levels are literacy, A1- and A1+, and a German language course for mothers and children is also available. The project receives funding from the European Integration Fund, the Austrian Federal Ministry of the Interior and the province of Tyrol.

The goal of CHARISM is to assist jobless young people in strengthening their individual skills so that they may find adequate long-term employment. The young people are to be motivated and encouraged to take their personal development into their own hands. The idea is that, rather than feeling hampered by their weaknesses, they should learn to identify their potential and the skills they already have. This will, in turn, lead to success in life and at work. CHARISM aims to help the young people achieve their objectives and to show them that they are in charge of their own future and career.

Programme: ESF Objective 2 Programme
Project number: E-1.2-130
Project period: Feb. 2012–June 2014
Contractor: BFI Tirol Bildungs GmbH

This project adopts an innovative approach to education for parents, facilitating an exchange of experience and ideas between fathers, mothers and other key carers of children aged five to eleven. The goal of the project is to help parents increase their children's chances of good education and training and, thus, of good prospects for the future. In the course of the project, mothers, fathers and other key carers train to be "parent guides". The training equips them with knowledge about educational matters and strengthens their social skills. Subsequently, the parent guides organise group meetings with other parents and carers (so-called "education parties"), where aspects of school, education, parental rights and issues of families with school-age children are discussed.

Like many other industrialised regions, the Austro-Hungarian border region is facing big challenges due to an ageing society. In spite of massive demand, the border regions in both countries lack nursing and social care staff, and redressing this shortage is paramount. The main goal, therefore, is to provide (further) training schemes in nursing and social care for 40 students each from Hungary and Austria. A focus will be on hospice and palliative care, as at present this profession does not exist in Hungary. In the course of the project, specialist networks of social care providers are to be established at local level.

50+ Innovative Coaching is based on the Perfect 50+ Leonardo project, in which a training programme was developed for SME staff to become coaches for older workers. In the follow-up project, the existing coaching model will be adapted to meet labour market requirements in the partner countries. The project goals are:

- further development, adaptation and testing of the training course and coaching methods;
- introduction of the coaching to SMEs;
- information on the issue of having older employees and people with disabilities on the staff;
- guidance for the target group on further job-related training.

Integration benachteiligter SchülerInnen in den Arbeitsmarkt im Rahmen der dualen Ausbildung (AT-HU ISA)

Programme: ERDF
Project number: L00148
Project period: Sept. 2012–Aug. 2014
Contractor: BFI Wien

This cross-border project focuses on learning from each other. On the one hand, the know-how that BFI Vienna has acquired of teaching methods for disadvantaged students in the dual education system is to be shared with the Hungarian project partner, while on the other hand experience gained in Hungary will be fed into the teaching programmes at BFI Vienna. More specifically, the project goals include: organising study visits to Austria, developing a strategy and an implementation plan for Hungary based on the Austrian model, drawing up / adapting course proposals for teachers and employers in Hungary and Austria, running pilot courses for teachers and enterprises in both countries, and implementing a mentoring programme in Hungary.

This transfer project aims to combine existing approaches to basic education and the corresponding curricula to form a basic education model, which will be tested in a pilot phase in Upper Austria, Carinthia and Vienna. The goal is to create a harmonised basic education portfolio for all BFI institutes that meets the requirements of the "Länder-Bund-Initiative", a provincial and federal stakeholders' joint initiative to promote basic educational qualifications for adults.

Project number: AT/12/LLP-LdV/IVT/158031
Project period: June 2012–May 2014
Contractor: BFI Wien

In this mobility project, students at commercial schools run by BFI Vienna have the opportunity of doing a three-week work placement in enterprises in the Czech Republic, Slovakia and Hungary (and soon in Bulgaria, too) during their holidays. A total of 28 students are to take part in the project. The goal is to promote personal development, employability and participation in the European labour market. Prior to their stay abroad, the students undergo preparatory foreign language training. After their work experience they receive the Europass document.

In the context of You. Promote Business (YouPro), a training programme is being developed for young people who are not in education, employment or training (NEETs). The training in social media marketing and consultancy for small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) consists of a theory part and work placement in SMEs. This training programme is designed to help achieve two important EU goals: to integrate older teenagers and young adults into society and the labour market, and to improve the competitiveness of SMEs and micro-enterprises.
