Modellprogramm zur Hospizbetreuung entlang der Grenze
(NÁRCISZ)

Programme: ERDF
Project number: L00172
Project period: Mar. 2013–Dec. 2014
Contractor: BFI Burgenland

In care and nursing homes, expertise in hospice and palliative care is urgently needed. This is a follow-up project expanding the former TÁMASZ EU project on the building of social care networks along the border: in the context of the cross-border co-operation between Austria and Hungary 2007–2013, from May 2012 to November 2013, a sustainable network has been established, and organisation and training programmes have been developed. The project goal is a better integration of hospice and palliative care into Hungarian and Austrian care and nursing homes.

For communication to be effective, speaking the same language is not enough. Knowledge about the other person's culture, as the basis of their individual and social environment, is a prerequisite for a successful economic and personal life in the community. This integration project aims at:

- unbiased, interdisciplinary, participative contacts;
- the teaching of basic skills;
- enhancing communication skills;
- active participation;
- reducing prejudice and apprehension among the majority population;
- building a network for personal and economic development.

The project addresses both women from non-EU countries who live in Klagenfurt and women from the majority population. 80% of the events organised in the context of the project are open to the general public and specifically involve men and children as well.

Young immigrant women in transition from compulsory school to vocational training are offered opportunities for personal and social development and participation, which also reduces the risk of social exclusion. A meeting place is available to them, where they are given space to exchange experiences and establish contact with other girls of the same age, and where they can have advisory talks with social education experts.

The project consists of two parts:

- a course for 15 to 20 women (who may join at any time) focusing on such themes as everyday life in Austria (culture, society, language, religion, world views, family, health care, education, work, public authorities, advisory centres, etc.);
- individual coaching where women reflect on commonalities of and differences between the societies in their home countries and in Austria. Each client may attend eight sessions, and each week eight individual coaching sessions are scheduled.

The goal is to help participants cope with everyday life in Austria.

Berufsreife 2020

Programme: ESF Objective 2 Programme
Project number: E-1.1-410
Project period: Mar. 2013–Aug. 2014
Contractor: BFI Oberösterreich

The project addresses persons facing educational disadvantages (especially people of immigrant background), with the goal of making higher education access exams more attractive to them, reducing barriers and disadvantages that prevent them from taking the exam, and fostering multilingual skills and the specific potential that immigrants have, thus contributing to the promotion of social diversity. New strategies and instruments are being developed to encourage educationally disadvantaged persons to attend a preparatory course for the higher education access examination. A stronger basis for educational careers aimed at university access is thus created and safeguarded through advisory instruments.

This project further develops an approach that aims to build learning societies outside formal education institutions. It helps people cope with the challenges of modern life and, in addition, raises their awareness of civilian and social responsibility. The project's target group are young people who are not in education, employment or training (NEETs).

Selected activities:

- surveying the current situation regarding the recognition of non-formal and informal learning in the project partner countries
- compiling campaign materials
- summarising experts' contributions on existing recognition / validation procedures
- producing a European manual on this subject

The goal of this project is to transfer expertise in order to develop a specific Bulgarian model of vocational orientation and labour market integration for young people from different regions of Bulgaria.

Key activities:

- collating information on successful procedures, methods and practices when working with “difficult” young people
- transferring this expertise, as an adapted model, to Bulgaria
- providing assistance in the training of instructors and multipliers

In Milli, 60 women from non-EU countries are assisted with their integration into Austrian society. Project goals include:

- improving the participants' German language skills;
- providing assistance in vocational orientation;
- preparing the participants for entering the workforce in Austria;
- empowering the participants with regard to reconciling family and job duties.

To achieve the above goals, six low-threshold regional workshop packages have been developed and implemented in Upper Austria: in Linz, Traun, Steyr and Perg.

Experts in (further) education and training co-operate with their counterparts from other countries so that the work-based training methods with constructivist learner-centred approaches developed by Austrian and Danish production schools can be implemented in the southern and south-east European partner countries in the best possible way. The goal is to bring down the high unemployment rates among young people in the partner countries by combating the school and VET dropout rate and by preventing dropout risks.

ISO 17024:2003 Certification: Qualified Construction Worker ISO 17024:2003

Programme: Lifelong Learning Programme, Leonardo da Vinci
Project number: 2013-1-AT1-LEO05-09481
Project period: Oct. 2013–Sept. 2015
Contractor: BFI Steiermark

The project, or ISO CONSTRUCT for short, is aimed at the sectoral transfer to the construction industry in the partner countries of the certification approach developed in the ISO QUAM Leonardo project, which, based on the internationally acknowledged ISO 17024 standard, permits transparent certification of competences that have been acquired non-formally or informally.

Project results:

- fieldwork on specific vocational competences required in the construction industry (Levels 1 and 2 of the European Qualifications Framework EQF), using the EQF descriptors
- preparation of a competence matrix for the relevant occupations
- adaptation to the ISO CONSTRUCT requirements of the competence certification system developed in the predecessor project
- testing and assessment procedures for ISO 17024 certification
- testing phase with participants in the partner countries to obtain feedback on the process and the instruments used
- adaptation of the certification process and the instruments
- activities to disseminate the method and its results for sustainable use

This project aims to provide an operative framework for the European Credit System for Vocational Education and Training (ECVET), to test ECVET and to facilitate the validation, recognition, transfer and accumulation of units and learning outcomes. The project provides practical tools for analysis and describes a number of vocational qualifications in the tourism and catering industries at Levels 2 and 3 of the European Qualifications Framework (EQF).

Project results:

- European study on ECVET for tourism and catering
- transfer of the ECVET TC NET project to new partner countries
- ECVET certificate
- practical testing of the ECVET model based on mobility within the project partnership
- blended learning tools for mentors
- Web site

Quality Assurance for VET Providers Using Product Lifecycle Management (Q-PLM)

Programme: Lifelong Learning Programme,
Leonardo da Vinci
Project number: 538379-LLP-1-2013-1-AT-
LEONARDO-LMP
Project period: Oct. 2013–Sept. 2015
Contractor: BFI Steiermark

Product life cycle management is a conceptual approach that looks at a product throughout its entire lifetime. Each product in the market has a certain product life cycle – this also applies to educational products. In vocational education and training (VET), demand for a coherent, practical instrument to control and monitor product life cycles is high. Q-PLM aims to create such an instrument. The main goal of the project is to develop the software, as well as a manual, for integrated product life cycle management for European VET providers.

The goals of PolePosition 12 are:

- to help people who have been granted asylum or who are entitled to subsidiary protection prepare for the labour market through German language qualifications, technical language courses and vocational qualifications;
- to co-operate with partner enterprises in validating vocational know-how that has been acquired in a formal way but has not been recognised;
- to co-operate with partner enterprises in validating competences that have been acquired informally or non-formally;
- to help young people in the target group prepare for the compulsory school completion course.

Quali-Fair

Programme: ESF Objective 2 Programme
Project number: E-1.1-450
Project period: Mar. 2013–Aug. 2014
Contractor: BFI Tirol

Quali-Fair addresses people whose first language is not German, who have completed compulsory education and who are interested in furthering their qualifications (e. g. end-of-apprenticeship exam, additional training, university entrance exams).

The participants, assisted by specially trained education advisers, start an intensive coaching process to identify the competences they already have (biographical methods and description of competences) and then define their educational goals (educational counselling). They jointly draw up a detailed educational plan, with clearly defined steps towards their educational goal (e. g. taking up a certain type of training, upgrading their qualifications by completing an apprenticeship, etc.). The general framework needed for implementing their educational plans is discussed, or created if necessary. The participants are then assisted in the implementation of their educational plans (educational assistance): an open learning centre with computers, internet access and a variety of learning materials is at their disposal; they can also attend specific workshops on further education and continuing education and training, and consult with tutors.

This project addresses educationally disadvantaged persons and persons whose participation in further education programmes is below average, e. g. immigrants, particularly second-generation immigrants (such as young women or men with roots in Turkey or the countries of the former Yugoslavia). Innovative strategies and instruments are used to encourage them to attend preparatory courses for the university entrance exam, or, if they cannot meet the educational requirements for that, to prepare for an end-of-apprenticeship exam.

With regard to the objectives of the Vienna 2020 qualification plan, the “Competence+ Guidance” model that the Educational Guidance in Vienna network has been offering since 2013 will be adapted to address the specific needs of persons with low qualifications, and implemented in workshops. The project's subgoals include activities to develop and make available

- appropriate (tested) methods for reaching the target group;
- selected, tested materials for the current competence guidance format; and
- job application strategies and tools tailored to the specific needs of the target group.

In care and nursing homes, the demand for expertise in hospice and palliative care is rising. In order to remedy the current deficiencies in Hungary and Austria, the project aims to improve the integration of hospice and palliative care competences in care and nursing homes. The project draws on preparatory work from the TÁMASZ EU project on the expansion of social care networks along the border: in the context of the cross-border co-operation between Austria and Hungary 2007–2013, from May 2012 to November 2013, organisation and training programmes have been developed for this purpose, and a sustainable network has been built.

Provision of the Services of Experts to Design Syllabi, Teaching and Learning Resources and Production of Course Packs of MCAST Levels 1, 2 and 3 Courses and the Pathway Programme

Programme: ESF Malta Programme
Project number: CT 3041/2012
Project period: Mar. 2013–Jan. 2015
Contractor: BFI Wien

The general objective of the project is to enhance the employability of people with special needs, and to increase the number of students at Qualification Levels 1, 2 and 3 at the Malta College of Arts, Science and Technology (MCAST).

Based on the audit report by an independent group of experts, external specialists in vocational education and training, collaborating with MCAST teachers and local industries, develop course packs (syllabuses, teaching and learning resources) for MCAST Levels 1, 2 and 3 as well as the Pathway Programme in order to implement innovative teaching methods in the current system. In addition, MCAST staff receive training in their work with people with special needs.
