Publics: young people

Berufsorientierung „Oldtimer“ im Bezirk Oberwart

Programme: European Social Fund
Project number: 112/15-BGLFOE
Project period: Jan. 2017–Oct. 2017
Contractor: BFI Burgenland

This project provides an opportunity for technically-minded young people to learn more about work in the automotive, metal and electrical industries. To this end, the participants are instructed in dismantling and repairing an old tractor so that it becomes functional again. After the project the tractor is auctioned. During outplacement phases the young people receive help in finding a suitable apprenticeship position.

Gründen als Chance für Frauen

Programme: European Social Fund
Project number: 266/6-BGLFRA
Project period: Jan. 2017–Jul. 2018
Contractor: BFI Burgenland

This project focuses on sustainable measures to support women in Burgenland who want to start a business. The measures taken involve individualised, needs-based backing and assistance in going self-employed, including health management and burnout prevention in order to create and maintain a healthy basis for work.

The target group of this project are non-EU nationals with prospects of long-term resident status, persons granted asylum and persons entitled to subsidiary protection in Austria. They attend a German language course with a focus on intercultural, social and labour market policy aspects to facilitate their sustainable integration into Austrian society. After an assessment process the participants can acquire a recognised ÖSD / ÖIF language certificate, depending on their command of German. In addition, they receive competence- and biography-oriented counselling to assist them with the recognition of foreign degrees, educational and career guidance as well as the presentation of formally and informally acquired competences. A total of ten courses are offered.

This project pursues three goals:

- to counter the increase in unemployment among people aged 50 and over;
- to develop, advance, exchange and share good approaches to keeping the over 50s in employment;
- to enhance the communication between stakeholders in politics, administration and business, as well as representatives of employees and employers, and civil society in the region.

To this end, joint cross-border training programmes for advisers of older unemployed people and heads of HR at companies in the border region, a transfer conference, a manual and a network of experts are planned.

Offering joint training to Czech and Austrian advisers in the traditional commuter belt of Southern Bohemia / Upper Austria is a pioneer approach.

Produktionsschule Murtal/Murau

Programme: European Social Fund
Project number: 32455906800271
Project period: Jan. 2017–Dec. 2017
Contractor: BFI Steiermark

This project targets young people who need to catch up on basic, social and personal skills. It is aimed at helping participants acquire the skills they lack in a personalised way so as to make the transition from school to working life easier.

The project is implemented at the BFI training venues in Spielberg and Murau (Styria). It includes three modules (getting started, orientation and training and specialisation), and is built on four cornerstones: practical training (with a focus on woodwork, administration and office work), coaching, skills workshops (for acquiring basic skills, IT skills and life skills) and sports.

“ABC-Café” in Kufstein (Tyrol) is a course for persons whose first language is not German and who want to improve their German language skills and learn more about life in Austria. They learn, practise, revise and consolidate their German speaking and writing skills. The focus is on the proper usage of German in specific everyday situations. The course takes place in a cafe atmosphere to enable an informal exchange and discussions on integration issues that are relevant to the participants.

Programme: Asylum, Migration and Integration Fund
Project number: MI 02-80/2017/18
Project period: Jan. 2017–Dec. 2018
Contractor: BFI Tirol Bildungs GmbH

“Pole Position” is aimed at the acquisition and development of technical and work-related German language skills in order to improve the vocational competence and facilitate the sustainable integration into the Tyrolean labour market of the target group: third-country nationals, persons entitled to asylum and persons granted subsidiary protection with prospects of long-term resident status. The participants in the vocational preparation courses receive sound information on the Austrian labour market and acquire specific theoretical and practical knowledge for getting started in commercial and technical jobs, the retail trade, sales, the catering and hospitality industry or in nursing and care.

DC4WORK focuses on the digital skills needed in the workplace 4.0. Staff of small and medium-sized enterprises in tourism and the retail trade are trained as mentors who identify digital qualification needs and propose appropriate training schemes in the familiar setting of the workplace. The goal is to enhance the digital competence of employees and thus to improve competitiveness and increase job security in the enterprises.

The “Top for Job” project is targeted on young refugees aged between 15 and 25 who are neither in education and training nor in employment. They are to obtain their compulsory school leaving qualification so that after this programme they can start vocational education and training.

Being referred to the programme by the Public Employment Service, the young refugees go through a six-week introductory phase. It is then decided whether they are ready to take part in the 51-week training programme or whether they need to attend a preparatory course first. In the modular training programme the participants cover the examination subjects that are required for completing compulsory schooling and a German language course from A2 to B1. They also receive extra tutoring and one-to-one coaching. In addition, work placements in enterprises are organised in co-operation with a recruiter. Six cycles of the training programme are offered.

“Five by Five” represents five European adult education organisations that make up a network for the exchange of best practices focusing on five key issues. These key issues are:

- migration, recognition of prior learning and the labour market;
- adult education and the digitalisation of the labour market;
- learning outcomes approach to education and training and the European Credit System for Vocational Education and Training (ECVET);
- media didactics and new media (social media, microlearning and game-based learning);
- new approaches to learner-centred didactics.

For each of the five key issues knowledge communities are established for joint research, discussion and exchange of good practices.

This project targets adults entitled to asylum or subsidiary protection who already have basic skills: a variety of methods are used to teach them language skills and basic knowledge relevant for integration. A practical approach to developing language skills is pursued, with a focus on individual support for participants and skills-building to facilitate active participation in further training courses or first steps into work. This is complemented by information, excursions and dialogue to raise awareness of social participation and responsibility, which the participants are supposed to actively spread as integration mentors in their communities. This encourages the development of self-efficacy, self-reliance and self-responsibility.
